Byrnes Declares Supreme Court Must Be Curbed

WASHINGTON (AP)—James F. Byrnes, a former associate justice of the Supreme Court, said today the court "must be curbed."

"Power intoxicates men," Byrnes said in a copyrighted article in the magazine U.S. News & World Report. "It is never voluntarily surrendered. It must be taken from them. The Supreme Court must be curbed."

Byrnes, a member of the high court in 1941-42, also is a former member of the Senate and of the House, and the holder of various high offices in the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson administrations, including the secretaryship of state in the latter. His most recent public office was as governor of South Carolina.

Byrnes assailed as a "usurpation of power" the Supreme Court's decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools and hinted that the decision may not have been unanimous, as was announced at the time it was handed down two years ago this week.

Nothing that the court continued from one year's term until the next the five cases which were consolidated for purposes of the decision, Byrnes wrote that "had the court been unanimous... such an opinion would have been written within a few months," and he continued:

"Instead, after many months, the court announced that the cases should be reargued and counsel should direct their arguments to certain questions."

Declaring that "we can only speculate as to how the court reached its decision," Byrnes said the framers of the Constitution and members of Congress who approved the 14th Amendment, contemplated school segregation. The court, he said, "was that several million Negroes had migrated to the big cities in Northern states and constituted the balance of political power in several states."

Forestry Camp Planned for 4-H Clubbers

A two day 4-H Club Forestry Camp is to be held on the Gunter farm near Columbus in northwest Hempstead County Wednesday and Thursday, May 30-31. "Take Care of the Pine Tree and It Will Give Us All a Job" is the theme of the club activity.

The two-day schedule calls for camping in the pine woods, cooking on an open fire, observing and studying the things about, and doing some fishing in the well stocked farm ponds.

The camp staff who will instruct the youth in the conservation and use of timber, water and soil, self, fish, game, recreation and organization for safety in camp includes: Buster Denton and Curtis Pauley, District Foresters of the Arkansas Forestry Commission; William E. Harris, Minister; Dr. Herbert Rogers, Veterinarian; Lester Wade, Arkansas Game and Fish Commission; Woody Miley and Dean R. Wallace, Extension Service Specialists; Cecil Bittle, Experiment Station Director; Odell Luck, farm manager; and J. B. Williams, Associate County Agent.

Each boy is to bring his own bedroll, fishing equipment, eating utensils, lunch for Wednesday, and anything else desired except guns. Each boy is to wear comfortable clothing and shoes.

The camp fee is only fifty cents per boy for the two day camp as Gunter Lumber Company and Graydon Anthony Lumber Company are investing in the camp cost. Bruner-Ivory Handle Company will provide transportation to and from the camp from Hope.

All boys 10 to 14 years of age are invited to attend the camp. A camp reservation is to be made with County Agent Oliver L. Adams by each boy prior to Monday, May 28. Senior 4-H Club boys will assist County Agent Adams in the camp organization and direction. The camp staff will select two of the senior club members to attend the State Forestry Camp at Camp Couchdale near Hot Springs during the week of June 18-23 and a delegate to the State 4-H Club Week at Fayetteville during the week of July 23.

Terms Foreign Military Aid Cutback Mistake

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson told Congress today that any cut in the administration's program of foreign military assistance would run a "serious risk" to the defense of this country "and the Free World."

Furthermore, he said, it would require this country to undertake "a complete re-evaluation of our own international position and of our own military budgets."

Wilson testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in support of the administration's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid program.

"Today," Wilson said, "we are helping to support about 200 divisions in the armies of our Allies."

This Allied force, he said, "is several times the strength of our own Army."

Reduced aid for these armies, he said, would require a "much greater increase" in American manpower and equipment at a much greater cost than that entailed under the foreign aid program.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, cautioned against allowing "ourselves or our friends" to "fall into the trap that is being staked out for us" by Soviet Russia.

For the present, he said, the Communists seem to be relying on programs of economic, military and technical assistance because the tactics of violent revolution and overt aggression because "too hazardous" in the face of American-supported defense alliances.

"We would be playing into the Communist hand if we failed to show clearly that we understand how important it is that the Free World remain strong and invulnerable to the Communist exploitation of force," Radford said.

The Soviets are "making a great deal of noise about peace," Radford said, but are also "striving to the best of their ability to build their own military capabilities to the highest possible levels."

There is no question, Radford said, that "more modern and efficient weapons and equipment" are flowing into the Red arsenal "at a steady, if not increased rate."

He added:

Doctors Told People Are 'Forgotten'

TYRONZA (AP)—Human relationships in medicine will be the main theme of a meeting here May 24, when political figures, millionaires and top medical men gather in a tent to eat barbecue.

The meeting is the result of two years work by Doc L. H. McDaniel, who believes that scientific advances have been over-emphasized to the detriment of the doctor-patient relationship.

Officially it will be a joint meeting of the first, second and third districts of the Arkansas Medical Society. But prominent guests will make up most of the crowd of about 1,200 — nearly double the population of this northeast Arkansas cotton and rice community.

Dr. McDaniel, a professor of ethics at the University of Arkansas Medical School, has practiced medicine here 34 years.

His main idea is to interest the "average thinking citizen" in the workings of the medical profession.

The other side of the question — the doctor's attitude toward the patient — was expressed by Dr. W. H. Anderson of Booneville, Miss.

"More progress has been made in medicine during the past 30 years than in the year since the death of Hippocrates in 357 B. C. But we have been so interested in finding the germ that we have forgotten the people the germ affects."

McDaniel said he had commitments from top officials of virtually every national medical organization. More than 80 persons will participate in the 9-hour program.

They include: Both Arkansas senators, John McClellan and J. W. Fulbright; several congressmen and Gov. Orval Faubus will speak.

A portion of the meeting will honor 11 people who have made outstanding contributions to medicine in particular fields.

Divorce Given by Court for 'Adultery'

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Sebastian County man today was granted a divorce by the Arkansas Supreme Court on grounds of adultery. The decision reversed a lower court ruling based on "the reason that both were at fault."

The Supreme Court agreed, however, that the man, John G. Ayres, "is by no means free from fault."

In an opinion written by Associate Justice George Rose Smith, the Supreme Court said Ayres, "is by no means from fault."

In an opinion written by Associate Justice George Rose Smith, the Supreme Court said Ayres, "is by no means from fault."

In the course of establishing a successful position in the business world, Ayres seems to have devoted very little time to his family."

Mrs. Justine Ayres originally sued for divorce, charging personal indignities. Ayres filed a cross-complaint asking for a divorce on grounds of adultery.

The Supreme Court removed a $100 monthly alimony set by Sebastian Chancery Court, Fort Smith District, but left a $300 monthly payment in effect for support of their three children.

The opinion said the 'Supreme Court believed Ayres proved the adultery charge "by a preponderance of the evidence." It said she met J. S. Griffin, a bus driver, in 1933 and "entered into an adulterous relationship."

Ayres "had his wife spied on by paid investigators," the court said. "Perhaps with some provocation he cursed and struck his wife when she asked if she might have Griffin in their home for coffee. On another occasion he lost his temper at a dance and injured his wife's hand slightly."

Dealers Have Plenty of Cars Despite Cutback

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Despite almost unprecedented April production cutbacks, new car inventories have continued to mount.

The monthly survey of Automotive News showed today that on May 1 dealers throughout the country had 802,270 new cars jammed in warehouses and storage lots or in transit from the factories. The total compares with an April 1 figure of 898,669 units and is only 1,519 units below the record total set March 1 this year.

The auto makers built fewer cars in April than in March—347,600 units compared with 378,500—in the effort to reduce retail stocks. Most industry analysts expected production cutbacks through April to bring a reduction in inventories.

Failure of the reduction to materialize, they say, emphasizes that the sales sag has been more serious than most industry sources realized.

On May 1 a year ago dealer inventories stood at 763,041 cars. Factory production in the first four months of 1936 came to 2,879,000 cars. Factory output for the January-April period this year was cut to 2,291,000.

The auto industry customarily operates at near peak levels at this season. April production last year came to 754,077 cars.

Most auto industry experts are agreed there will be no comparable production volume in any month this year. There still are, however, some signs of improvement in the industry's total output for 1936 will come very close to the $666,000 units that made 1935 second best in industry history.

Last year's total assemblies of slightly more than 7,920,000 cars probably will stand as the record for many years to come. Retail deliveries last year were recorded at 7,920,000.

That sales volume was achieved largely through price slashing at the retail level, with extraordinary effort during the model clean-up period.

DETROIT (UP)—General Motors Corp., recalled 400,000 hourly-paid workers today but two other automotive companies announced they were extending layoffs, leaving the industry with a serious unemployment problem.

American Motors Corp. said 4,550 auto workers in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., who were scheduled to return to work today will not be called back. Chrysler Corp. extended a two-day layoff of 6,500 workers for one more day, through tomorrow.

An AMC spokesman said his company's callback was postponed because demand for its large cars — Nash and Hudson—failed to increase as expected. The idled workers include 50 in Milwaukee and 3,100 in Kenosha who were laid off March 22 and 23 and another 1,000 laid off in Milwaukee on April 20.

Panama Starts Counting Votes

PANAMA (AP)—Election officials settled down today for a long count to determine Panama's new president, elected in weekend balloting.

Both candidates claimed victory. But with more than 388,000 citizens eligible to vote, official results were not expected for at least two weeks.

Contesting for president were Ernesto de la Guardia Jr., 51, a Dartmouth college graduate, and former Supreme Court Justice Victor Florencio Goytia, 57.

The winner will take office Oct. 1 for a 4-year term.

Shipwreck Toll Is 3, Storms Leave 13 Dead; Blast at Atomic Plant

Flood Continues to Pose Threat, 270 Injured

By The Associated Press

Weekend tornadoes and violent storms gouged destructive trails across parts of the nation, leaving 13 dead, at least 270 injured and millions of dollars property damage.

The Weather Bureau said the threat of violent weather had passed today.

Disastrous windstorms in the Cleveland area killed six persons, injured at least 69 and caused property damage estimated by police at "several million dollars."

Six others were killed and more than 200 injured by 19 separate tornadoes that roared down on Michigan. Damage at Flint alone was estimated by authorities at 1 1/2 to 2 million dollars.

Northern Ohio reported one other storm death when a youth drowned in a flooded drainage ditch.

Flood threats existed in Michigan and Pennsylvania, where thunderstorms dumped heavy rains into swollen streams.

Winds of up to 70 m.p.h., accompanied by heavy rainfall, hit Cleveland and its suburbs Saturday night. Police estimated damage in the suburb of Rocky River at five million dollars.

Mayor Frank P. Celeste of the Cleveland suburb of Lakewood estimated damage there at more than 1 1/2 million dollars. Lakewood police said more than 600 trees

Feels British to Advance in Atom Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sir Edwin Plowden, head of Britain's Atomic Energy Authority said today his country may go ahead of the United States in developing commercial atomic power because its needs are "very urgent."

After paying a courtesy call on President Eisenhower, Plowden told newsmen that Britain quite likely will get into the atomic power field on a major basis ahead of the United States.

Plowden was accompanied to the White House by Lewis Strauss, chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. Strauss toured British atomic installations last year and Sir Edwin now is returning the visit. His inspection in this country has been confined to civilian nuclear projects.

Asked which country is ahead—the United States or Britain—in development of atomic power for civilian purposes, Sir Edwin replied:

"I don't think either side is ahead."

He went on to say that the two nations are confronted by different problems.

In the United States, he said, there is plenty of cheap power already available with ample supplies of such things as coal and gas.

"You have got to build very efficient nuclear power stations in order to be competitive," he said.

In Britain, he added, "we are short of coal and oil and have no natural gas so we have a very urgent power need."

For that reason, Plowden said, the cost of producing nuclear power is not the deterring factor it is in the United States.

Contracts for Britain's first nuclear power station will be let this fall with construction to start early next year, he said, adding that the project should be completed by 1950 or 1951.

Sir Edwin said he told Eisenhower his visit to nuclear projects in this country has been "extremely pleasant" and instructive.

Three Persons Hurt in Blast at Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UP)—A non-nuclear explosion rocked the area of a top-secret atomic energy plant today, critically injuring three workmen and sending up dense clouds of black smoke.

The location, a salvage yard at the west end of the Atomic Energy Commission's Y-12 plant area, was roped off and fire trucks were standing by until the smoke cleared. The AEC said no buildings in the area caught fire.

An AEC spokesman said several containers of zirconium scrap, a metal used in increasing quantities in the commission's reactor development program, exploded.

The zirconium scrap was being stored under water in 50-gallon drums. There was no immediate explanation for the cause of the blast.

Zirconium is a metal which oxidizes rapidly and must be stored with great care. One of the drums might have corroded, allowing water to reach the metal, which then reacted violently.

The AEC said the blast occurred when the three men were moving aluminum scrap to clear a path through the yard to make way for a vehicle. They were working about 30 feet from the exploding drums.

Injured were A. L. Lyons, 27, who suffered extensive injuries and burns. The right arm of G. R. Myers, 26, was ripped off by the blast and W. R. Stooksbury, 24, was severely burned. All three are employees of Union Carbide Nuclear Co., which operates the plant for the AEC.

AT&T engineers are investigating the cause of the blast. He said every precaution had been taken to guard against such an incident.

The AEC said the blast was "non-nuclear." A spokesman said several containers of zirconium oxide and scraps of zirconium metal exploded in a salvage yard at the west end of the Y-12 plant, a production and research and development installation near this atomic energy city.

Candidates Enter Finals of Campaign

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver and Alder E. Stevenson headed today into the climactic, final three weeks of their presidential primary campaign.

Here is the lineup for the three final rounds:

Oregon—The two candidates will be competing in the primary Friday for write-in votes which will bind the state's 16 votes at the Democratic national convention.

Florida—Both have states of pledged delegates on the ballot in the May 29 contest for the state's 23 convention votes.

California—Both have delegate states entered for this state's all-important, winner-take-all primary June 5, when delegates with 68 votes will be elected.

Nebraska—Holds its primaries tomorrow with Kefauver unopposed on the Democratic side and President Eisenhower unopposed in the GOP vote Write-in votes are permitted.

Republicans in Nebraska also will elect 18 national convention delegates and the Democrats will name delegates with 13 votes. But the delegates are not bound by results of the presidential preference vote.

Stevenson moved into Oregon last night from California, where he has spent most of the past two weeks. Kefauver was spending today in the San Francisco area before following his rival into Oregon tonight. Both are scheduled to address a University of Oregon meeting at Eugene tomorrow night.

Missing Boy's Body Found

CHICAGO (U. S. A.)—A young mother's hope of seeing her missing son return on Mother's Day went unfulfilled. His body was found in the Chicago River.

"We were hoping to see him today was Mother's Day. I would have come home to us," sobbed Mrs. Leo Rausch, 38, on learning of the death of her son Leo Rausch, 17.

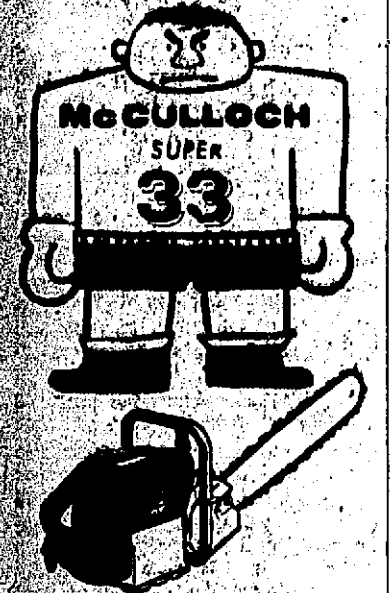

"Last Mother's Day he saved money from his allowance, and bought me a beautiful flower," she recalled.

Police said the boy's body had been in the water at least a week and possibly since the day of his disappearance April 30 when he failed to show up for school. They said he apparently had drowned. His body bore no marks of violence.

Mrs. Rausch said her son had run away several times last winter but returned home each time on his own.

The Rauschs have four other children, ranging in age from 3 to 9.

THE LONG BODY

CHAPTER XXXI

Basil Wyling shook his head as he read how Hazard and Byrd Cushing rode across the river into Mexico. Then he read on:

"Her house was the first one we came to on the river side of town. There was a veiled light in the window, on our side, when we got near."

"We pulled off the road, walked our horses around to one side to tie them to a fence where they couldn't be seen by passers-by; then walked around to the front. Byrd knocked on the door."

"It opened almost at once on a low-ceilinged interior lit with the soft yellow glow of an oil lamp, and she stood framed in the doorway looking at us."

"Her eyes rounded and she cried, 'Gringos!' and started to close the door, but Byrd was talking fast in the Mexican lingo we'd both picked up in Arizona as boys, telling her we were Tim Rafferty's friends."

"She no longer looked frightened. She smiled faintly, stepped back and told us to enter quickly. Close to she was neither as young nor as pretty as I had expected."

"She had eyes only for Byrd. The faint smile still curved her lips as she watched him and I knew that I might just as well not be there."

"She asked us to sit down and said in a matter-of-fact tone that she would send her daughter next door for a friend who would entertain me."

"I was young enough to find it utterly shocking when a little barefoot girl about four years old answered her call from another room. I protested that she shouldn't bother that I'd just have a glass of wine and go."

"But she spoke rapidly to the child without heeding my protests and the little girl nodded and ran out. It was warm, even in that thick-walled room. At her suggestion, we took off our denim jackets. Byrd unbuckled his gun belt and laid it on top of his jacket. She brought out a long-necked bottle of wine and three water tumblers and filled them."

"The front door slammed open. A short, swarthy man burst into the room with a gun in his hand. The woman screamed in Spanish. 'My husband. He'll kill us!'

"It never occurred to either of us that she might have a husband. Tim Rafferty hadn't mentioned one. Even the presence of a little daughter had not enlightened us. But there was no mistaking the look of guilt in the woman's face."

"And the man was swinging up his gun to cover Byrd. There was murder in his eyes, yet I couldn't move. My 45 was still holstered at my side, but I had forgotten it. Byrd couldn't reach his own gun. He stood still, face white but head thrown back defiantly as he looked death in the face."

"It was that suspended moment that it was the woman's hand that were felled by the storm.

About 1,500 civil defense auxiliary police and other volunteers aided authorities in directing traffic in the Cleveland area and clearing the streets of debris.

In South Cleveland, a man and two children were killed when a tavern collapsed under buffeting by the strong winds. Two men were electrocuted when they touched a fallen power line and a youth was killed when a tree fell on his automobile.

DETROIT (U. S. A.)—Forecast rains caused continued anxiety today in tornado-battered Michigan.

A downpour, it was feared, would swell preceding river and streams to flood levels that took in the wake of the weekend twisters.

Six died in the 20 screaming whirlwinds that left 200 injured and property damage estimated at more than two million dollars.

Winds destroyed or damaged over 200 homes and upward of another 300 were evacuated as flooding streams threatened to inundate them. Some commercial buildings and factories also suffered wind or flood damage.

Worst hit were the Flint area and adjoining Allen Park and Lincoln Park, Detroit suburbs.

Flint had three tornadoes dead from three twisters which roared through its outskirts at supersonic speeds Saturday. It has 50 miles northwest of Flint, had another.

Two men, one in Muskegon and another in Saginaw, died of heart attacks attributed to anxiety over approaching storms.

Lower Michigan had a seven-hour tornado alert and one small twister Friday that dipped into the northwestern outskirts of Kalamazoo, but injured no one. Saturday a warning came at noon, and the first of 19 terrifying twisters hit some five hours later. Last night there was one a baby tornado that dipped into the Menominee airport and wrecked a sheet metal hangar and three airplanes.

Torrential rains were dragged along by most of the twisters. Some brought hail.

The men were identified as A. L. Lyons, 27, who was reported to have lost an arm and a leg. G. R. Myers, 26, had a right arm blown off in the blast. W. R. Strooksbury, 24, was severely burned. All three, employees of Union Carbide Nuclear Co., were taken to Oak Ridge hospital.

The site of the explosion is about three or four miles from the city. Its force was felt slightly in the Atomic Energy Commission offices here. Witnesses said dust and smoke could be seen rising above a ridge which separates the plant from the city. There was no accompanying fire and nearby buildings were apparently not damaged.

Atomic Energy Commission headquarters in Washington said it had no details of the accident other than those which were made public in Oak Ridge.

An AEC spokesman explained that zirconium is a metal which oxidizes rapidly and must be stored with great care. At Oak Ridge, it is stored under water in drums.

One theory about the explosion was that some of the drums may have corroded, allowing water to reach the metal, which then reacted violently.

Zirconium is being widely used by the AEC as a structural material in nuclear reactors. It is not an "atomic" material—that is, it does not itself undergo nuclear fission. Its usefulness in a reactor derives from the fact that it has a relatively low neutron absorption rate, and therefore does not "steal" neutrons from a chain reaction as much as other structural materials, such as stainless steel. It is used among other things, to clad or jacket fuel elements in a reactor.

Rate Proposal Is Before High Court

LITTLE ROCK (U. S. A.)—Arkansas Power & Light Co.'s petition for a rehearing on its application for a $4,200,000 yearly rate increase was taken under advisement by the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

The Supreme Court recently upheld the state Public Service Commission's decision, rejecting the increase.

AP&L contends it needs the higher rates to earn a 6 per cent return, the traditional return allowed public utilities in Arkansas by the PSC.

The company contends that the court erred in stating AP&L had admitted it is earning 5.58 per cent return. The PSC and the Supreme Court had held that amount to be adequate.

In answer to the rehearing petition, the PSC said that the figure was obtained by "only two arithmetical exercises."

The Supreme Court seldom grants rehearings.

Suspended U. S. Worker Reinstated

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sidney Hatkin was lucky, left hanging in midair by the government — jobless and under a cloud he found someone to fight his case in public. Then he got his job back. It's doubtful he would have been reinstated if he hadn't asked the help of former Sen. Harry P. Cain and if Cain hadn't made his case public.

Hatkin's case points up what appears to be unnecessary delay and carelessness for individuals by the government in clearing and reinstating.

The meeting opened with the President, Mrs. Wayward Burke presiding and the minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Carlton Samuel. Mrs. W. H. Burke gave the devotional, and the Lord's prayer repeated in unison. Mrs. Roy Burke, Mrs. Carlton Samuel and Mrs. James Burke were elected as a committee to look into plans about joining the Federation of Garden Clubs.

The group were then invited into the large den where Mrs. H. H. Urrey of DeQueen was guest speaker. She opened with a prayer, then gave a short talk on roses and her trip to Tyler, Texas Rose Garden on May 6. A 45 minute cllc on flower arranging was conducted by Mrs. Urrey.

Mrs. C. G. Critchlow got honorable mention on a piece of her finished driftwood containing a lovely arrangement of wild flowers. Pamphlets on flowers were presented to the guests and she closed with prayer with everyone standing clasping hands; dropping link by link.

Delightful refreshments were served to 18 members and four visitors.

Yocum Family Reunion
The three Yocum families met in the home of Mrs. Lewis Smith for Mothers Day. There were 38 present to enjoy the picnic dinner and pictures were made in the afternoon.

Following the opening of the gifts, the guests roasted weiners and were served drinks and hot dogs. Mr. and Mrs. Garland were assisted in serving by Mrs. Dwight Pankey, Mrs. Sam Townsend, Mrs. Tom Garland and Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Pardue, Jr.

Guests were, Jerry Hale, Kenneth Moody, Bobby Martin, Danny Reyenga, Robert Paul, Johnny Wade, David Pry, Dean Weeks all of Emmet, and his cousins, Melanie Pankey of Prescott and Candy Pardue of Vivian, La.

DOROTHY DIX

Is Gambler Repentant?
Office Crush
Much Older Fiancee

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been married for 25 years and have two wonderful children, a boy 23 and a girl 9. Twenty of these years were happy ones. Then I fell into the habit of gambling on the races. Sometimes I won, but more often I lost. I shared my winnings with my wife, but as time went on my losses grew greater and greater. I borrowed from loan companies; my family wasn't deprived of anything. When the loans were called and I had no money, I left home.

In two days I realized flight wasn't the answer, so decided to go back, face the situation and solve it as best I could. When I tried to get into the house, the locks had been changed and my wife refused to admit me. She claimed I had deserted her.

Our friends have told her she's wrong, that her place is with me in good or bad times. Now, when I need her moral support more than ever, she turns against me. What can I do to change her attitude?

W. R.
Dear W. R.: A little background on your marriage would be helpful. Did you always give moral support to your wife when she needed it, or did you let her work things out alone? Have you been as quick to share good times with her as you are to share the bad breaks? Many a husband who screams to high heaven for the little woman's moral support when things go wrong heads right for somebody else when skies are blue and unclouded.

I heartily agree that your wife's place is with you now — if you have a sincere intention to straighten out your life. However, if you want her just for this one muddy stretch, the door should be kept locked.

Only you can analyze the honesty of your reform promises. If you can make your wife believe them, too, I'm sure she'll open the door and let you in. Don't make her regret it!

Dear Dorothy Dix: Recently I came to work in an office where I fell in love with a bachelor co-worker. I'm in my late 30's. He was very friendly at first, but now barely speaks. I think the other girls in the office told him stories about me.

MYRA
Dear Myra: Sounds like a persecution complex to me. Probably you read much more into the man's cordial "good morning" than he ever intended. If he realized that you had visions of wedding bells dancing through your head — and those things are quite apparent to the wary male — his sudden aloofness is understandable.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Several months ago I started dating Anne, a fellow student at the music school I attend. Our friendship progressed rapidly and I proposed. My announcement met with violent objective — or firing — government employees suspended as security risk.

Hatkin, 40, married and with children, was suspended as a security risk in February 1955 by the Air Force, where he worked as a civilian statistician. In April 1955 he was given a three-day hearing by a security board.

It took the Air force from then until Saturday to decide whether it was safe to let Hatkin return to work. It did so only after Cain, Washington Republican and member of the government's Unsubversive Activities Control Board, made a speech about Hatkin's troubles.

Except for a few weeks, Hatkin could not get a job during the 14 months of his suspension. He hadn't been fired as a security risk but he hadn't been cleared either. He was in a state of suspension.

On Saturday Secretary of the Air Force Quarles announced he had offered Hatkin a job with the Air Force doing non-sensitive work — not near secrets. Hatkin hopes for full clearance later.

Why did it take a year after the board heard the charges against him for action in his case? The Air Force, through a Pentagon public relations man, says it takes time to handle these causes.

In a speech in New York a week ago Saturday, Cain talked of Hatkin's case without mentioning his name. Hatkin's identity was soon learned.

Cain, one of the most severe critics of President Eisenhower's programs for getting security risks out of the government, cited Hatkin as an example of what he said happens to hundreds of suspended.

He said he knows a 416 government employees who were suspended as risks, and later reinstated.

But only after some of them had waited an average of eight to nine months for a final verdict. Cain declared this long delay for people left them in an agony of spirit about their future and ver often jobless until the moment of reinstatement.

It is doubtful Hatkin would have been reinstated without Cain's open statement of his case. Last February a Russian employed in the Soviet Embassy contacted Hatkin after the latter had put an advertisement in a newspaper seeking a job. The Russian asked him to gather information about the aircraft industry.

Hatkin notified the FBI at that time but two weeks ago — a week before Cain made his speech — the Air Force notified Hatkin it had tentatively decided to fire him as a security risk.

jections on the part of my family. Anne is eight years older than I, and I will have several years of school ahead. How can I reconcile my family to accepting Anne?

STUART
Dear Stuart: Postpone the engagement a while, at least until you've progressed a bit further with your education, and let your family and Anne become acquainted. Your youth and the difference in age are valid objections.

Sex Problem Subject of New Film

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Deborah Kerr, once restricted to power-puff pictures at MGM, is back on the lot for a subject many said could never be made into a movie.

The picture is "Tea and Sympathy," and she is playing with other members of the Broadway cast, John Kerr and Lell Erickson, as any playgoer knows, the story concerns a boy at a private school who is accused of being a homosexual. The wife of an instructor rebels against his persecution and gives herself to him to prove his manhood.

"Of course they said the movies couldn't handle such a play," said Miss Kerr. "People are always saying that, for some reason or another."

"But I think the movie script contains all the best elements of the play. After all, the play was about persecution of a minority, wasn't it? That still remains the theme of the film. The playwright, Robert Anderson, has also written the story for the screen, and I think he has done a fine job."

No mention of homosexuality is made in the picture, since that is forbidden in Hollywood films. The student, John Kerr, is portrayed as being "different" from other students. He prefers to stay indoors and listen to his records while the other boys play. The persecution grows, aided by an unsuccessful fling with a waitress. The climax of the story is the same, except that it takes place in "a sylvan glade" rather than MOSCOW (UP)—Nine of Russia's outstanding medical scientists have charged that Soviet schools are ruining the health of students through overwork.

COLLODI, Italy (UP)—The story of Italy's long-lost prince, Prince Amedeo, was published in a children's magazine. The story was written by Giovanni Guareschi, a famous Italian writer. The story was about a prince who was lost in the woods and found by a group of children. The story was very popular and was translated into many languages.

Newspaperman Carlo Lorenzini wrote Pinocchio's story for a children's publication in 1882. He was paid 16 lire (then about 75 cents) for each episode and little suspected the story would become a children's classic.

Lorenzini's mother was born in this little Tuscan village, and he used Colodi as his pen name.

Since then the story of Pinocchio has been translated into all the major languages of the world, including Latin, French, German, Spanish, Italian, and many others. It has been praised by Vatican leaders as an example of perfect

Daytime TV Comes in for Praise

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (UP)—Most of us working stiffs, who dash from the house in the morning to catch the 8:11 and buckle into our solid television some time after 7 p.m., are missing a wonderful half-world which seems to bear little or no relationship to afterdark viewing or, as a matter of fact, to life itself.

Most of day time television viewers are women. And if stay-at-home women who watch the commercials should garner a strange idea of how the other 60 million women of the nation live—as well as the remaining 60 million men—don't blame the little woman.

I should think her discontent with two items—her house dresses and her kitchen—would be unbearable. In the marvelous world of commercial television, every housewife, inside or outside commercials and with the notable exception of Mrs. Ralph Kramden, inhabits a kitchen roughly the size of the flight deck of the USS Forrestal, in which has been placed every possible new, gleaming cooking aid. And the ladies who inhabit them are dressed, whether to whip up a quick breakfast or a hearty, jiffy, work-saving meal for their happy family, in garments—impeccably pressed, custom-made—a suitable for a matinee.

In the soap operas, of course, a good guide book is a must. I dropped into a half dozen and couldn't understand anything that was going on except that everybody was full of trouble—mostly unrequited love and faithlessness—and that most children are being badly misunderstood.

Yes, indeed, workers of the world, if you haven't had a daytime television tour, take a day off and count it vacation time well spent. It's a strange and mysterious world, more foreign than the casbah.

Alabama U Plan Rejected by Court

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court today rejected an effort by the University of Alabama to upset the court order which had compelled it to admit Negro coed

Audreyine J. Lucy.

The controversial Lucy case, which stirred up riots at the Tuscaloosa, Ala., school earlier this year, was largely academic by the time it reached the high court.

The University first admitted Miss Lucy in compliance with a lower court order, and then expelled her on grounds she had falsely accused school officials of encouraging the riots which broke out when she showed up for classes.

Today's court action had nothing to do with the expulsion, and apparently will have no immediate practical effect on Miss Lucy's announced plan of seeking readmission in the future.

But it was the ladies of a series of actions in which the Supreme Court has in effect nailed down the doctrine has ax-supported colleges and universities in the South must admit qualified Negroes with out any of the delay or "gradualism" the court has permitted in integration of public elementary high schools.
